

AND Committee

Mission: To make our community a safer place for families, through education, support, awareness & advocacy.

“In The Midst of Chaos, Where are you?”

The Abuse, Neglect, Dependency, and Prevention (AND) Committee has over 30 years of history devoted to the prevention of child abuse and neglect, the promotion of awareness of abuse and neglect issues, and the presentation of a quality, affordable annual conference targeting professionals working with children at risk and victims of abuse or neglect.

In addition to our annual conference, the AND Committee collaborates among its members to educate the community. The AND Committee members share resources, programs, and trainings that help provide a more integrated service delivery system.

In the midst of chaos, where are you?

Igniting Passion, Preventing Burn-Out!

By: Tina Levene

This Keynote address is a positive, interactive, and engaging experience where the audience walks away feeling appreciated, inspired, and motivated to improve their self-care and wellness management skills as well as increase productivity and improve staff retention.

Participants will:

Identify 6 ways to prevent burn-out

Identify 3 ways to recover from burn-out

Strategies to ignite passion

Best ways to develop effective communication skills

Heart Math

By: Meg Hogan

Heart Math is empowering people to experience change, challenge and adversity in a way that makes them feel fulfilled and energized. Most of our stress revolves around our jobs, finances and family. This training is a means to counteract the consequences of stress and bring our best self to all aspects of our life.

Implicit Bias

By: Jeffery Lorick

This Diversity and Inclusion training will increase participants' cultural awareness, knowledge, and communication. It will also benefit an organization by helping to prevent civil rights violations, increasing the inclusion of different identity groups, and promoting better teamwork. Participants will gain knowledge, skills, and tools to meet the demands of today's active working environment.

Recover Out Loud – The Struggle is Real

By: Stephen Sundquist

From a promising baseball career to a hopeless drug addict, Stephen will share his story in hopes of helping that one person can change their life for the better. From the day he got sober, Stephen has dedicated his life to helping those achieve freedom from their addictions
